

Silk dress, £1,315, Preen by Thornton Bregazzi (net-a-porter.com)

Poptails Collection Flower ring, POA, Solange (solange.co.uk). Wildly Attractive perfume, £135, Diana Vreeland (selfridges.com)

Vanity case, £985, Charlotte Olympia x Globe Trotter (charlotteolympia.com)

Flower-drop earrings, £245, Miu Miu (matchesfashion.com)

Catwalk look Prada S/S 17

ON THE SCENE: BAGLIONI HOTEL CARLTON, MILAN

THE MOOD: PATTERN PARTY

It's all too easy to miss the black plaque of the Baglioni while hotfooting it from Dolce to Prada along the cobbled, boutique-packed via della Spiga. One of the few places where we'd rather slip in through the back door (the official entrance is around on the main artery of via Senato), it's the only hotel in town with such dangerously direct access to Milan's most fashionable street. Inside, however, it shrugs off discreet in favour of an opulent fantasy of textural delights: silks, velvets and marble. Acres of marble. Antique furniture and parquet floors are polished to a mirror-like gleam, ornate Murano chandeliers dangle above leopard-print chairs and windows are thickly draped with floral brocade. During fashion weeks, play Vogue bingo in the neoclassical lobby: Giorgio Armani and Kate Moss are among those who could be on your scorecard. And if they are not sleeping here, they are most definitely eating here. Il Baretto restaurant is the city's power lunch spot where industrialists, politicians and head honchos converge. The design riffs off an English gentleman's club (racing-green tartan carpets, dark wood-panelled walls). But from the tender cotoletta alla Milanese to the separate smoking room, the rest of it is pure Milan. KIKI DEERE baglionihotels.com. Doubles from about £250

Silk shirt, £460, Equipment (harrods.com)

EDITOR'S PICK
'Only Mr Louboutin could sprinkle sufficient magic dust on a hiking sandal to make it this sensational.'
HANNAH MOORE, ACTING FASHION DIRECTOR
Randonata sandals, £995, Christian Louboutin (christianlouboutin.com)

Koh Samui bikini, £200, Heidi Klein (heidiklein.com)

Ribbon bag, £1,680, Prada (prada.com). Bahama travel mirror, £34, Magic Mirror (magicmirroruk.com)

